

StoneBridge needs little or no introduction.

Released in October 2004 to overwhelming international acclaim, his debut artist album Can't Get Enough made StoneBridge a household name all over the world - The singles Put 'Em High and Take Me Away, both UK Top Ten hits, have to date been released in over 24 countries. StoneBridge is now getting ready to release his follow up artist album Music Takes Me with the first single SOS, high on charts all over the world during the summer and forthcoming single You Don't Know ready to hit.

Born in Stockholm, StoneBridge began Djing in the early eighties, spinning funk and disco at his own night called Fellini. When the house sound of Chicago dropped in the mid eighties, StoneBridge made an official switch to house and started to remix tracks with a crew of other local DJs under the name SweMix. The reputation grew and soon StoneBridge began remixing international acts like De La Soul, Titiyo and Rebel MC. With his remix of Robin S Show Me Love in 1993, that has become one of the biggest selling house records of all time, StoneBridge established himself as a world class remixer and producer and he has continued to work with a large ensemble of successful and famous artists, including Lenny Kravitz, Missy Elliott, Robbie Williams, Simple Minds, Will Smith, Texas, Patti Labelle to mention a few and more recently Sophie Ellis Bextor Me & My Imagination and Debbie Harry Two Times Blue.

StoneBridge's highly successful label Stoney Boy Music keeps releasing club anthems with his special brand of peak hour house and in 2007 his new single SOS , already a massive club hit in the UK, and follow up artist album Music Takes Me will see the light as well as Davidson & Romano In The Way Of Music, Jill Jones Someone To Jump Up and many more.

Being a DJ in demand, renowned for his sexy and pumping house, StoneBridge is crisscrossing the world to places like San Francisco via Sao Paolo to Sydney with several international residencies and regular slots secured including Solidaritet in Stockholm, The Cross in London and Family in Brisbane. StoneBridge's most recent mix album The Flavour The Vibe was released worldwide in summer 2006 following the Dance Valley Sunrise double album in 2005.
